

Imagine a place that embraces the moment.

Adith Miller Manor and Roger Metz Manor are two 10-bed assisted living homes for seniors with Alzheimer's and other related memory impairments. We recognize our residents are individuals who possess unique histories, talents and abilities. We believe in "embracing the moment" and creating daily moments of success. All residents are allowed to live and work toward maintaining the highest level of functioning in all aspects of their lives despite their memory loss through participation in meaningful life skills and activities.

Caring staff offer assistance with activities of daily living, we encourage independence, maintain dignity and respect the individuality of all our residents.

Moving a loved one into an assisted living home may be one of the most difficult decisions you will have to make. Rest assured that we will help guide you through the process and will do our best to help your loved one's transition into a new home go as smoothly as possible.
